TEXT EQUIVALENT FOR THE VIDEO “BUDAPEST MARGIT DISTRICT – OUR SECOND HOME”

The video opens with a sunny view of a city park. The music creates a relaxed, yet lively and vibrant, atmosphere. (Music: Lost Kings, featuring Norma Jean Martine: “When we were young”)

On a sunny autumn day, a male student is walking towards the Budapest Margit district, which is an off-the-beaten-track local district of the city. He stops by a poster shop and admires the art posters through the window. He takes out his phone and texts something. (A tram passing by.)

Another male student walks on the street and ends up browsing through vinyl LPs at a second-hand record shop in the Margit district. He receives a message on his phone. (Another tram passing by.)

A female student visits a local food store in the Margit district. She too receives a message on her phone. (A tram and some cars passing by.)

Another female student visits a vintage clothing store in the Margit district. She browses through clothes hanging on the rack when she also receives a message on her phone. (Buildings and statues in the Margit district, cars and trams passing by.)

The two male students have met up at a bar and are enjoying drinks. They go out and start walking through the Margit district. The two female students are also walking in the district. A third female student, sitting at a cafe, gets a message on her phone. All five students meet up at a local internet cafe where they socialize and work on their computers.

They come up with a plan, leave the cafe together and take the metro. The students wander around the Margit district, visiting several local shops, both separately and together. The shops seen in the video are selling records, accessories, arts and handicraft, second-hand books, silverware, food, and flowers. The students communicate with their phones. (Cars and trams passing by, people wandering through streets and parks.)

The five students meet up at a sightseeing spot and walk together towards a park where a sixth student (female) is waiting for them, sitting on a picnic blanket. They enjoy their picnic snacks and have fun together. The video ends with the six students standing together by the river Danube. The evening darkens, and you can see the Hungarian Parliament building in the background, illuminated with orange night lights. Text appears: Margit Negyed, our second home.
